Institutional Ethics Committee-II
PDEA's College of Ayurved & Research Center, Nigadi
First meeting, 22nd to 25th January 2022

Meeting started at 9.30 with welcome and introduction of all newly appointed members by member secretary. On behalf of institute ,the Principal Dr.R.R.Patil madam welcomed the members and shared her views.Chairman IEC-II Dr.Supriya Bhalerao madam mentioned four principles of ethics like autonomy, beneficence etc. In her remarks she explained duties of IEC-II committee members.Review of the synopsis started at 10.30 am.

Common instructions to the research scholars:

- Furnish Patient/Participant Information Sheet; PIS (English, Hindi, Marathi/local language) and Informed Consent Form; ICF (English, Hindi, Marathi/local language). Those who presented Patient information sheetshould make it explicit. PIS mustbe in a language understandable to patients/participants and must be free from medical/Ayurvedic terms. It MUSTcontain the following points:
- The consent is being taken for a 'research study'.
- Rescue plan: If the disease symptoms aggravate after participating in the study (may be due to trial medicine), what help will be given the patients?
- The available safety data on formulations (if not on individual ingredients should be provided to patients.
- The information as to what should be donein case of adverse effect, should also be provided to the patient. E.g., if a medicine is likely to cause acidity, what should be taken to reduce the acidity or should he consult the doctor.
- All the study procedures should be mentioned in detail along with anticipated adverse effects (if any). This has to be more specific in case of interventional study.
- Needs a specific mention that in case anyone suffers any adverse effect then the same shall be dealt by the researcher at his own cost.
- All the researchers whose research is dependent on any investigation then the same will be done at the cost of researcher.
- Privacy and confidentiality clause is mandatory.
- Do not label 'written informed consent' or 'written information sheet'. Label just as 'informed consent'. Only 1 witness is sufficient.
- Submit an approval letter from the Institutional EC, where the study would be conducted. If EC does not exist in a working institute, then provide NOC from the Head of Institution.
- Do not mention caste, religion, socioeconomic status in inclusion criteria
- Do not use the phrase 'both male and female", instead use 'either male or female'
- Register all the studies with CTRI
- Do a thorough literature search not only from Ayurvedic texts and theses but also from other published literature like journals.
- Calculate sample size using appropriate formula- understand the details of the parameters used for the calculation

- Do not mention dose, duration and methodological details of drug in research question and hypothesis- in case you are considering PICOT format of research question, you may add duration but dose and methodological details (e.g., scales being used) are not required
- Do not use google form for survey studies; personal interviews should be preferred unless there is a condition like lockdown.
- Use the terms Randomization and random sampling cautiously-they are not synonyms
- Correct the spelling and sentence constructing mistakes in both English and Marathi. These mistakes were noted in many synopses, which do not look good at PhD level (e.g.,words like "putted" instead of "put")
- Follow the rules of transliteration if you are using Roman script for Sanskrit words. Pronounce Sanskrit words correctly.
- Since the EC has non-medical persons on board, explain the concepts like 'Janubasti', 'Kaphajkasa' etc. in simple English language.
- Do not blindly followthe changes suggested by the committee, do think over them.

Abstract

Introduction : In Sushruta Samhita seven kala are described. Kala is located in dhatu separating it from its ashaya. In Sushrut kalpa sthana, concept of visha vega has been described. Kala works as the barrier in the organs. The poison circulating through the blood is opposed by kala in that organ up to certain time limit. After that the poison crosses kala and spoils that organ producing visha vega. This time is different for each organ. Some organs get affected early and some later.

Materials and Methods- To demonstrate this phenomenon, gunja extract which is a hemorrhagic poison; was injected in the rats. Ascending time duration was specified for batches of rats for the action of poison to take place. The effect of poison was observed by the histopathological examination of certain organs of rats like spleen, liver, lungs etc.

Results : Histopathological reports of these organs revealed affection of poison in the form of haemorrhage. Spleen, liver, lungs, intestines etc. were found affected chronologically.

Discussion : This experiment proves the presence of kala in organs as a barrier and supports Sushruta's concept of sequential outbreaks of poison. Sevan such visha vega are described after the poisoning in human. These visha vega are taking place sequentially and the organs are damaged chronologically in spite of simultaneous poisoning of all organs.

Introduction:

Sushruta has described the concept of kala with its definition and types in Sushrut samhita. From this description it is difficult to find out the exact structure and functions of kala. If we want to apply the concept of kala sharir in chikitsa it is essential to confirm the exact form, structure and function with the help of Ayurvedic fundamentals and to a certain extent with modern science. Sushrut has mentioned the development of visha vega (sequential outbreaks of poison) in animals and in humans. The development of visha vega seems to be very surprising and interesting. As a step towards the understanding of the concept of kala, animal experiment was performed to find out the reality of development of visha vega.

The signs and symptom taking place in each visha vega are described in the text. Poison spoils dhatu one by one sequentially. A specific outbreak is produced by damaging a particular dhatu, which will produce some definite signs and symptoms.

Though the absorbed poison gets circulated through blood in each and every organ at the same time, all organs don't get affected at once. Dhatus get damaged orderly- rasa, rakta, mamsa, meda and so on. This is the concept stated by Sushruta.

Aim : To determine the presence of kala in various organs.

Objective : To demonstrate visha vega (sequential outbreaks of poison) production in rats using Gunja extract as a hemorrhagic poison.

Literature study

Definition of kala

Kala is defined as border line or lining of ashaya made from dhatu. And these are seven in number.

Kala is a structure inside a dhatu itself.

Seven kala are- raktadhara, mamsadhara, medodhara, shleshmadhara, purishadhara, pittadhara and shukradhara.

Concept of visha vega

Regarding the process of spread of poison in the body, it is said that- between dhatu there are seven kala. Seven visha vega are produced respectively as poison crosses each kala one by one in the order mentioned.

Material and method :

Background of the animal experiment

Selection of the poison- The poison that produces detectable effect in the tissues/ organs is needed for the experiment. The aqueous extract of abrus precatorius seeds (Gunja) is a hemorrhagic poison. When injected; causes congestion, internal bleeding in different tissues/ organs. This effect can easily be identified in the histopathological examination.

Relation of experimental observations with visha vega concept

In visha vega, poison crosses kala and damages a specific dhatu causing some definite signs and symptoms. Internal congestion, haemorrhage occurring in the organ can be considered as dhaatu dushti of that organ. Peculiar organs are described in text in which specific kala exists. If that organ suffers haemorrhage it is possible to say that poison has crossed that particular kala. Thus, haemorrhage indicates that poison has crossed the particular kala in that particular organ. If definite organs suffer haemorrhage at different time intervals, step by step, then it proves-

1) Visha vega taking place.

2) Internally poison crosses kala step by step, in the order of succession instead of crossing all of them at once.

Preparation of the aqueous extract of Abrus pricatorius for the administration

Fine powder was prepared from the dry seeds. Calculated amount of powder and water for injection were mixed into the test tube and shacked vigorously. Mixture was allowed to settle and clear extract was taken into the syringe. Calculated quantity of aqueous extract was injected into the thighs of rat.

The procedure of animal experiments

Seven batches of two rats each were made of rats having same age weight and all males. After the injection of poison, each batch was sacrificed sequentially. All fourteen rats were dissected, examined and photographs were taken. The organs were removed and kept in different bottles with 10% Formalin solution labelled with rat number batch number and the name of the organ.

Cong.= Congestion Haemo.= Haemorrhage + denotes severity grade

Microscopic Examination

Lungs- lungs showed vascular congestion in the initial phase and interstitial haemorrhages and severe congestion in the letter phage.

Liver- Affected animals showed sinusoidal congestion in the early phase of the study. The severity increased as the study progressed. Occasional cases showed focal haemorrhages.

Spleen- It showed maximum affection. There was marked congestion of the sinuses. In letter phase, areas of haemorrhages or haemorrhagic infarction was evident. The severity increased with the duration of the study.

Intestine- It showed haemorrhage and mucosal necrosis in the later part of the study.

Kidney- It showed vascular congestion, interstitial haemorrhages. There was no apparent damage to the glomeruli or the tubules.

Discussion :

Difficulty in understanding the concept of kala sharir

It is difficult to understand the concept of kala sharir from Ayurvedic texts alone. Conventional logic cannot be applied to each and every kala. The definition of kala also seems to be not relevant or appropriate to all kala. The suffix dhara indicates the function of physical support. It seems to be true for mamsadhara, raktadhara, medodhara kala. But the word dhara also specifies dharana karma, which is also physiological, which looks to be true for shleshmadhara, purishdhara, pittadhara and shukradhara.

Thus, if we study carefully, the sequence of kala described in the text; the function of kala of giving physical support goes on decreasing from mamsadhara to shukradhara. Thus, it is maximum in mamsadhara kala and almost nil in shukradhara kala. The physiological functions go on increasing from mamsadhara kala to shukradhara kala. Hence it is minimum in mamsadhara kala and maximum in shukradhara kala as shukra dhatu is essential for most advance body function like reproduction.

The theoretical concepts of kala are easy to understand. But confusion arises when we refer kalpa sthana in Sushrut where the role of kala in the occurrence of visha vega is described. By the definition kala is placed between dhatu and its ashaya. But here its location is described differently e.g. raktadhara kala is present between rasa and rakta, shleshmadhara kala is between meda dhatu and kapha dosha, pittadhara kala is placed between purisha mala and pitta dosha.

Asthidhara kala and majjadhara kala are not described in the list of original seven kala, but their relations with another kala are mentioned as purishadhara kala is asthidhara kala and pittadhara kala is also majjadhara kala. To demonstrate the reality of vish vega concept the present animal experiment was arranged.

Logic of the animal experiment

The poison gets absorbed in the blood and circulates in each and every part of the body. But all dhatus don't get affected simultaneously. The poison damages dhatus one by one that is rasa, rakta, mamsa, meda and so on, crossing kala in between; sequentially. A definite stage of poisoning produced by poison, crossing that kala, spoiling a particular dhatu causes some specific signs and symptoms. These are explained in the texts for different types of poisons in human. The stages of poisoning also occur in the animals but are less in number. Being haemorrhagic poison; gunja extract produces internal haemorrhage in the various organs.

This haemorrhage in the organ is considered as dhatu and srotodushti of that organ without which haemorrhage might not have been occurred. Thus, we may assume that visha crosses kala; damaging dhatu as well as srotas and resulting into internal haemorrhage. For each kala there are some specific organs. If haemorrhage takes place in that organ; which can be observed by the histopathological examination, one can say that poison has crossed the particular kala damaging the specific dhatu of that organ, after the specific time interval. It proves the presence of kala in that organ.

This animal experiment indicates that the injected poison simultaneously riches in all organs through the circulating blood. But all organs are not affected at once. Haemorrhage takes place in the organs at different times. The first target organ of the poison is the spleen. This is followed by lungs, then kidney and liver then large intestine and finally small intestine gets affected. Other organs are not found affected by the poison in histopathological examination. The important fact to be noticed is that the organs which get damaged by the poison that is spleen, lungs, kidney, liver, large intestine and small intestine don't get affected at once but they are damaged chronologically.

It is definite that something resists the poison and tries to prevent it from spoiling dhatu up to certain time limit. This can be recognized as the name kala. It acts like a barrier in dhatu. The power of opposing the poison goes on increasing from rakta dhara kala to shukradhara kala. The resistance of each dhatu against the poison depends mainly on kala which exist in that particular organ.

Conclusion :

1) Presence of kala in various organs can be determined; as kala acts like a barrier in dhatu and resists poison from crossing it.

2) Definite demonstration of occurrence of visha vega is possible on macro and microscopic levels in the rats.

3) After the administration of haemorrhagic poison in the rat; various organs are demonstrated to be affected sequentially.

4) The spleen, lungs, kidney, liver, large intestine and small intestine get affected chronologically by the poison.

Post कोविड-१९ Phase व त्याची चिकित्सा

वैद्य योगेश दामोदर कुट्टे

वैद्य श्वेता योगेश कुट्टे

कोविड-१९ या व्याधीची चिकित्सा करत असताना ती प्राय: पाच स्तरावर करावी लागते असे अनुभवावरुन लक्षात आले - अल्प लक्षण समुच्चय, मध्यम लक्षण समुच्चय, तीव्र लक्षण समुच्चय व लक्षणोपशम नंतरची अवस्था (Post Covid Phase). या सर्व अवस्थांमध्ये आयुर्वेद उपचार अतिशय उपयुक्त ठरले आहेत हे प्रत्यक्ष दर्शनी आहे. या अवस्था - रुग्ण परिक्षण (दर्शन/स्पर्शन/प्रश्न इ), Blood markers/HRCT Report यांच्या आधारे केल्या जात असून त्यामध्ये सुद्धा वैयक्तिक अनुभव व परिक्षा पद्धती वरुन निदान व चिकित्सा पद्धत भिन्न असू शकते. तरी सुद्धा, कोविड-१९ हा चिकित्सेच्या दृष्टीने ज्वर या अधिकरणाखाली घेण्यास हरकत नाही कारण बहुतांश रुग्णांमध्ये प्राथमिक लक्षण हे ज्वर आहे व ज्वराबरोबर श्वास, कास, च्छर्दि, अतिसार हे देखिल कमी अधिक तीव्रतेने दिसतात. त्यामुळे पूर्वरुपांपासून ते उपद्रव पर्यंत ची चिकित्सा करत असताना अपल्याला ज्वर चिकित्सा तत्त्वांना केंद्रबिंदु ठेवावे लागते.

सध्या कोविड-१९ नंतरची रुग्णावस्था ही मुख्य कोविड व्याधी एवढीच लक्ष्य वेधून घेत आहे. याचे कारण या व्याधीचे उत्तरोत्तर धातूंवर होणारे परिणाम (तात्काळ व दूरगामी) व व्याधीची चिकित्सा करत असताना वापरलेल्या पाश्चात्य औषधांचा शरीरावर होणारे दुष्परिणाम. व्याधीचे स्वरुप व त्यामुळे समाजात पसरलेली अनिश्चितता किंवा भीती या सगळ्यांमुळे रुग्णाच्या मनावर देखिल एक प्रकारचा negative effect आलेला असतो. देह, इन्द्रिय व मन हे तिघेही यामुळे त्रस्त असतात आणि ज्वराचे हेच वैशिष्ट्य आयुर्वेदीय ग्रंथात वर्णन केले आहे.

पूर्वरुप किंवा मुख्य लक्षणावस्थेत योग्य आहार व विहार तसेच आयुर्वेदीय उपचार/सहाय्यक आयुर्वेदीय उपचार घेतले असल्यास लक्षणे सहसा तीव्र होत नाहीत. पण ज्या रुग्णांचे मुळातच धातूबल कमी आहे किंवा ज्यांनी Anti-viral, Steroids, Anti-Pyretics घेतले आहेत अशा रुग्णात Post Covid Phase जरा त्रास दायक जाते. जे रुग्ण तीव्र लक्षणांनी ग्रस्त होते व Oxygen/Ventilator वर होते त्यांच्या बाबतीत तर Post Covid उपचार खूप महत्त्वाचे ठरतात.

अर्वाचीन परिक्षणानुसार Fever बरा झालेला असतो पण आयुर्वेदाच्या नजरेतून ही अवस्था वेगळी आहे. Post Covid Phase मध्ये ज्वरोत्तर साधारणत: दिसणारे अग्निमांद्य, दौर्बल्य, अरुची इ. लक्षणे दिसतातच पण कास, श्वास यांची उपस्थिती सौम्य स्वरुपात कमी अधिक काळ रुग्णामध्ये राहते. काही रुग्णांमध्ये तर कास हा लवकर पाठ सोडत नाही व रुग्णास त्रस्त करुन सोडतो.

ज्या रुग्णांमध्ये मध्यम किंवा तीव्र Pneumonia होता अशांना Post Covid Phase मध्ये अल्प चंक्रमणोत्तर श्वास व दौर्बल्य हा त्रास होतो व काही दिवस घरी Oxygen द्यायची वेळ येते.

कोविड १९ या विषाणूचा किंवा त्याने निर्मित या व्याधी अवस्थेचा प्रत्यक्ष मज्जाप्रणाली वर परिणाम होतो असे ही एक मत आहे व काही रुग्णांमध्ये शीघ्र कोपित्व, नैराश्य ही मानसिक लक्षणे आढळून आली आहेत.

Post Covid Phase मध्ये दिसणाऱ्या लक्षणांची थोडक्यात खालील पद्धतीने स्रोतसानुसार विभागणी करता येईल -

स्रोतस	लक्षणे
प्राणवह स्रोतस	श्वास, कास,
अन्नवहस्रोतस	अग्निमांद्य, अरुची
रसवहस्रोतस	दौर्बल्य, अंगमर्द
रक्तवहस्रोतस	पाण्डु, शरीरावर किंवा काही भागावर आरक्त पिटिका उठणे
मांसवह/मेदोवह स्रोतस	कार्श्य
अस्थिवहस्रोतस	संधीवेदना
मज्जावहस्रोतस	नैराश्य, शीघ्रकोपित्व (Side effects of Favipiravir include Psychiatric symptoms[१])

पोस्ट कोविड उपचारात आयुर्वेदाची उपयुक्तता सिद्ध होत आहे.

Brief Summary	Novel Coronavirus (2019-nCoV) officially known as severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus 2 (SARS-CoV-2), is an epidemic endangering almost all the mankind as there is neither a vaccine nor the specific treatment protocol available. Mild symptomatic patients should be monitored and treated carefully to arrest the progression of disease and subsequently lowering the mortality rate. According to Ayurveda COVID -19 can be correlated to Vata-kaphaja Jwara, DahaJwara, Aupasargic or simply AagantujJwara leading to DhatupakajanyaUpadrava and unfortunately death in some cases. PippaliRasayna and Nagradi Kashaya having Vatakaphashamana and Jwaraghna. To study efficacy of both the preparations in Covid -19 positive mildly symptomatic patients present study has been planned. PippaliRasayana in combination with Nagaradi Kashaya ghanavati will be administered orally for 14 days in Group 1 as an adjuvant drug with ICMR guided medication for mild symptomatic Covid 19 positive patients.Group 2 patients will be treated only with ICMR guided medication advocated for mild symptomatic Covid 19 positive patients. Comparative results of group 1 and group 2 with sample size 30 in each group will be assessed.Inclusion criteria comprises of age limit between 20-70 years, male & female , Covid19 positive by RT-PCR having mild symptoms as per ICMR guidelines. Exclusion includes moderate to critically ill Covid 19 positive patients and patients having major systemic disorders like Ca, Liver failure, Kideny failure, encephalopathies, etc. RT-PCR, CRP,CBC,RFT,CXR will be done at 0&14 th day. Detailed Case will be documented with case record form with patient information sheet and informed consent document.Conclusion will be drawn by statistical analysis of available data.
